

JULY 27

“PRAISE IS NOT MEDITATION, PRAISE IS A SACRIFICE.”

READ

Hebrews 13:15, Psalm 34:1-6

Praise is not meditation, praise is a sacrifice. Praise is singing when it's dark and lonely, in the darkest midnight hour, when there is not one other soul around. You use your voice, the fruit of your lips, and laying your doubts and fears on the altar, you honor God. We are to offer praise to God regularly, continually, giving thanks to His Name; our Savior, Deliverer, Provider. He is deserving of praise. There is power in praise. We stand and sing praise to God in our weakness and discomfort, and in so doing, the strength of hell is weakened and the power of the devil is diminished. The chains that were holding you back will suddenly fall off. God does not want His children to be comfortable, but content. Believer, where you are now is God's will for your life. He's placed you in this situation, so that you will learn that no matter how rough it gets, there is comfort in the storm, when you praise Him.

PRAY

Jesus, I want Your praises to continually be in my heart and coming out of my mouth. Peace comes with praise. Power comes with praise. By Your grace and strength, I will praise You forevermore.

From July 27, 2008